REGULAR BASEBALL SEASON IS ENDED IN TIE WITH FARGO CLUB

Splendid Exhibition of Baseball Goes Nine Innings to a 1 to 1 Score

PLAYERS BEGIN TO LEAVE

The last game was the best. The Bismarck baseball club, closing the season as it has been constituted, and Fargo ended a five-game series Saturday afternoon by playing a benefit game for the swimming pool fund. The game ended in a tie, 1 to 1, with Al Anderson, of Bismarck, pitching against Jensen and Boardman of Fargo. Al deserved a 1 to 0 victory, according to the rule book. Umpire McClelland having allowed a Fargo score on a batted ball which hit a base-runner.

The Bismarck club closed the season with a good record, having won 33 games, lost 19 and tied 3, the tie games being with Fargo. The season was not a financial success, chiefly because of the dropping off of interest in the last month. The team also started with a big load, the expense of the new ball park.

Players Leave.

"Buck" Taylor and Wingfield were the first players to leave. Taylor and Wingfield went to Moorhead to play Sunday. Collins probably will finish the season around LaCrosse, Wis. his home; Ellis around Des Moines, Ia., and some of the players may join other clubs in the state. Fargo and Minot, however, are about the only two good clubs left playing baseball. Mel Anderson and Taylor may finish with Watertown, S. D.

CLUBS AFTER TAYLOR.

The St. Louis Nationals attracted by Taylor's record, corresponded with him. The Minneapolis American Association team also is reported having lines out for Taylor. "Buck," however, is a little reluctant to enter organized ball until he has acquired a little more experience. Many independent teams, such as the best in North Dakota, pay better money than many minor league teams and if a player jumps a minor league team, he has a hard time getting back in organized baseball. McInerney, Fargo centerfielder, was one of the best hitters in the Three-Eye league but jumped to Fargo because he was offered more money.

Fans, already talking about next year's team, would like to see Joe Collins back as manager. Collins not only played fine ball here this year, both in hitting and fielding, but his handling of the team was highly satisfactory to the fans.

The management may stage a big benefit game here before the first of September.

Saturday's contest, a clean and fast game, was a pitcher's battle between Al Anderson and Clarence Jensen from the start, with Anderson having the edge. Five assists for Anderson indicate the difficulty some of the Fargo players had connecting squarely with the ball. With Jensen weakening toward the finish and Boardman having promised the Elks committee he would hurt at least part of the game, Charley went into the box and finished it. The game was called at the end of nine innings, to permit players to catch an evening train.

Fargo scored first, in the fourth inning. Lenahan hit safely. Schaffer hit a two-bagger. Morse hit to Hester, who threw home. Lenahan being run down between home and first, Schaffer and Morse advanced on the play. Slyter hit between third and short, the ball hitting runner Morse. Umpire McClelland called Morse out but allowed Schaffer's score over the protest of Manger Collins. Slyter was caught attempting to steal.

Bismarck scored in the seventh. Coble hit for three bases. Harper walked. Mel Anderson went out, third to first, Coble scoring while Anderson was being thrown out at first.

A remarkable feature of the game was 27 putouts for Lenahan on first, showing the difficulty Bismarck batters also had lifting the ball beyond the infield.

"MARRY YOURSELF AND AVOID THE DIVORCE MILL!" IS THE LATEST!

THOMAS BARR, JR. AND HIS BRIDE, MISS WERNA I. JOHNSON.

By Newspaper Enterprise.
Newcastle, Ind., Aug. 22.—"We intend marriage with each other and desire to accomplish the same under the care of this meeting."

By these words Miss Werna I. Johnson, of Richmond and Thomas Barr, Jr., of Newcastle, will make themselves man and wife.

The bride and groom are Quakers. Marrying yourself is permissible under Quaker laws. It also is possible under Indiana laws, which recognize the Quaker custom. The ceremony is simplicity itself and no state marriage license is required. The ceremony is carried out in church in the presence of the congregation.

This is the first marry-yourself wedding in this state in 50 years.

The Friends' doctrine is that no human power can unite two persons in marriage, the solemn declaration of the parties themselves being the true marriage ceremony.

Barr's mother is Rev. Daisy Douglas Barr, the pastor of the Friends' church in Newcastle.

"I believe that if more couples were to marry themselves it would lessen the divorce evil," she says. "Records show only three divorces among Quaker couples who have entered wedlock through this ceremony."

flag draped basket. Even Col. McKee's famous poem, "In Flanders Fields," which Bishop Remington recited at the close of the service was translated into Sioux and drunk in eagerly by the three thousand Indian men and women who had crowded into the tabernacle, while on the outside from the surrounding hills, on pony back and from the tops of the prairie schooners others looked on. It would be difficult to picture a scene more sublime than that in this grave before the rude altar which had been erected, during the service, which was accompanied by the weird growling of the mourners who had followed the soldier's bier. The service concluded, the full procession of vested clergy followed the casket, which was attended by eight Sioux bunkies of the dead Eaglehorn, in two winding processions—men and women in separate columns, up the sloping hill to the burial ground. Captain James L. Glascock, of the Rosebud Agency, Post of the American Legion led the procession, holding by the hand the seven year old daughter of the soldier, followed by the widow, a tragic figure in black. The squad of veterans fired three volleys over the grave while a bugler sounded taps at the conclusion of the service at the grave, the great throng looking on with bowed heads in the brilliant sunlight, a group of cow men pausing on the hill and raising their hats in salute, while the Sioux slowly made their way back to the grove and settled into silent groups among whom the pipe was passed gravely about.

Set up Tepees

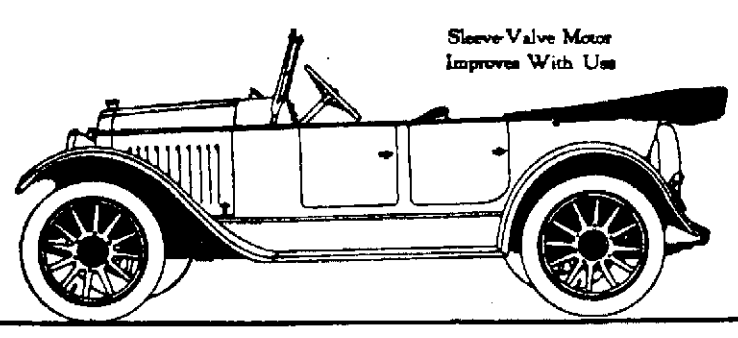

But if the old Indian is passing, his successor does not lack picturesqueness. They lumbered into camp early in the week, dragging their camp equipage behind them, set up their tepees about the circle, and with all the romance of old set about the work of making camp for the week's stay. Then got busy old Etoksha Luta, "Red around the Face," eighty years old, bent and grizzled, who goes about the camp throughout the day calling in Dakotan the notices for the meeting of the various delegations which are here from ten separate missions. Here are gathered striking types from Pine Ridge, Yankton, Rosebud, Sisseton and Crow Creek—with Santees, Crow Creeks, Cheyennes, Lower Brules, Sissetons, and Spotted Tails, all members of the Sioux Nation, gathered, each carrying the banner and the cross with the name of the

PEACE AT WHITE HOUSE KENNELS

Laddie Boy, aroldale, was made official mascot of the White House by President Harding when he was elected. All went well until inauguration day. On Boy, pure-bred English bull dog, was born that day and presented to the White House. When On Boy grew big enough to have a voice of his own he didn't get along with Laddie Boy. For several months William X. Jackson, official keeper of the kennels, has been acting as peacemaker. Now you see the result.

WILLYS-KNIGHT

The World's Most Convincing Tribute to Quality

RAPIDLY, quietly, the Willys-Knight motor car with the vertical sleeve-valve motor, has slipped into foremost favor in 50,000 homes.

Among its most powerful friends are the political and financial rulers of the world. Their tribute to its quality is paid in spite of its low price.

They buy it because its sleeve-valve motor never causes them to wait for valve-grinding or other repairs—and because a hundred thousand miles finds it at the peak of its power.

No car of its quality approaches its price. No car of its performance approaches its economy.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

MELTING POT

Fine results are coming from the Americanization movement.

Latest report shows 6,928,027 foreign-born white males of voting age in our country.

Out of every 100 of these, 48 were naturalized and 16 had taken out first papers. The percentage of naturalized citizens, compared with those who haven't been won over, has gained 20 per cent since 1910.

Come on, the rest of you! Join Uncle Sam's family.

LAWYERS

An eastern preacher says the Bible should be on every lawyer's shelf.

We don't know a better law-book for a lawyer to read than the Bible. It is the basis of much of our law and contains some pointed references to lawyers. We recommend to lawyers a reading of Verse 46, Chapter 11, in the Gospel of Luke.

And Jesus said: "Woe unto you also, ye lawyers! For ye lade men with burdens grievous to be borne, and ye yourselves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers."

PROSPERITY

What's preventing business revival? Pig iron makers in Chicago think they know.

They've cut their selling price to $18 a ton. That's only $3 a ton higher than in 1913. It's a drop of $28 a ton from the war-peak.

The iron makers are stuck with high-priced ore. But they're swallowing their losses so low prices will stimulate buying.

When everybody takes his loss and gets down to a sane level, business will revive.

Step up, gentlemen, and take your medicine. Make way for the reluctant landlords.

CHILDREN

Children about to enter their first year at school are examined in New York. Sixty-seven out of every 100 of them are found physically defective.

Their leading ailment are badteeth, diseased tonsils and malnutrition due to improperly balanced diet.

Mothers, this shows you the weak spots in the small child's body that are first attacked by city life.

Watch your child for these three defects in particular.

TAXING TOYS

The American toy industry has grown from $13,000,000 in 1914, to $100,000,000 in 1921, due to the fact that German toys have been practically excluded from the American market during the past seven years.

The American toy manufacturers are urging Congress to make the tariff on toys so high in the new tariff bill that German toys will be excluded indefinitely.

They claim that the German government is aiding the German toy industry in every way, making American competition difficult if not impossible without tariff helps.

Another nice question for the tariff makers to decide when they balance the interests of the manufacturer against the interests of the American consumer—in this instance the American child!

Will they load a tax burden on Santa Claus?

280,000 MOTHERS AND BABIES SACRIFICED

The Sheppard-Towner bill to provide federal assistance in maternity cases was passed by the Senate several weeks ago by a vote of 63 to 7. It went to the House, where it was referred to committee with the understanding that it would be promptly considered and reported out for final action.

It still reposes in committee and the news from Washington is that it seems to be the intention to let it die there.

If this happens it will be RANK BETRAYAL OF THE MILLIONS OF AMERICAN WOMEN who, through their organizations, have endorsed the bill and urged its passage.

It is clearly the one thing more than any other which the women of the nation have agreed should be written into the legislation of the country.

The Sheppard-Towner bill is no maudlin sentimental experiment as the few who oppose it have tried to make out. It is a very practical effort to alleviate the suffering mothers and to save the lives of mothers and babies.

A similar law exists in most other countries in the world.

In the United States 25,000 women die in childbirth every year. It is conservatively estimated that half of them are the victims of defective care during, preceding or following the birth of the child. The fatalities among children during the critical first year are upwards of 250,000. HALF OF THESE ARE SAID TO PERISH NEEDLESSLY BECAUSE THE GOVERNMENT TAKES NO THOUGHT OF THEM.

The extent to which we as a nation have been remiss in our duty to the mothers and babies, is shown by the fact that the United States is seventeenth among the nations of the world in respect of protection to child-bearing women. And we are seventh in respect to protection to the babies.

This is not guesswork. It is based upon the death-rate figures of the enlightened nations of the world.

The Sheppard-Towner bill is designed to wipe out the stigma which these figures have placed upon the nation.

The amount of money which it appropriates, $1,480,000, is inconsequential in view of the urgency of the situation and the great objective.

During the two and a half years that Congress has been "considering" the bill, 30,000 mothers and 250,000 babies have died as the result of the lack of care they would have received had it been promptly enacted into law.

There can be no possible excuse for further delay and every member of the lower house of Congress who directly or indirectly contributes to the delay should be held responsible.

DRY

Lots of good liquor in Switzerland. But if you're going after it, better hurry up.

Switzerland is in danger of going dry.

The temperance movement over there has reached the point where the Swiss Parliament soon will vote on it. Then a national referendum.

It begins to look as if the dream of a dry world isn't a dream, after all.

INCOMPATIBLE

An Australian business man who is visiting this country to study business conditions makes the interesting observation that America must choose between having a merchant marine and a high tariff.

The two things are incompatible as is proved by the fact that no nation has ever been able to maintain both.

Exchange of commodities is the life of industry and if America is to take a high place in foreign commerce, she must import as well as export.

A high tariff combined with a high rate of exchange will make this impossible.

TELESCOPIC VISION

"I have a friend," said a man the other day, "who spends from 9 in the morning until 6 at night drudging in the loop, and from 9 at night until 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning with his eye screwed to the small end of a telescope, gazing at the stars."

"Might better be in bed," his companion commented.

"I am not so sure," said the first man. "I had dinner with him the other evening, and afterward shared his vigil for two hours. I can understand better now why he does it."

And the man went on to tell how he had sat on a kitchen chair, with neck cricked and eye adjusted to the lens of the instrument and looked up over the passing traffic of the street and over the roofs of the houses into the craters and valleys and barren plains of the moon. By magic he seemed to be transported 200,000 miles beyond the world. His mind, accustomed to the evocations of contact with things human and familiar, things which constantly suggested the labors and burdens and limitations of life, found itself responding to a new stimulus and a new call. It was actually in another world—a barren, forbidding looking world, it is true, but a world which stirred the imagination, which offered it wide room for play and invited it to exercise itself. It was an experience, a thrilling experience for a man whose imagination had been for years bludgeoned by newspaper headlines and stupefied by the movies.

He came back to earth with an extraordinary sense of adventure. His soul had traveled. He had been for a precious moment conscious of its traveling—and that is something for a man who had almost ceased to believe he had a soul.

His friend swept the telescope across the starry field of the sky, pausing at this and that wonder—doubles, and star groups and nebulae. With each new glimpse of suns and galaxies and sun-stuff the thrill of the man's soul became more intense, until he felt as if the universe had overwhelmed him.

And presently he laughed. He laughed loud enough to startle himself and his friend.

"I was just thinking," said he, "that while we have been watching the host of heaven in its mighty march across the sky—suns innumerable, vast beyond conception, glorious beyond words, sweeping from the infinite into the infinite—down yonder on the Municipal pier 100,000 people have been exclaiming 'Ah!' and 'Oh!' at the sight of Big Bill's bombs and sky-rockets and calling it a 'Pageant of Progress!'" —Chicago Evening Post.

MEDICAL SCIENCE TURNS TO GOAT MILK AS BABY SAVER

The recent installation of the only goat milk condensing plant in the world, on the Wildman Goat Ranch near Pescadero, Cal., suggests the ultimate solution of an important problem pertaining to American babies.

Thousands of babies die annually due to malnutrition and allied digestive disorders which emanate from the inability of the youngsters to assimilate and thrive on cow's milk.

The medical profession has long known that sanitary goat's milk would measurably curtail this heavy infant mortality, but due to the difficulty of securing satisfactory food of this description in the average town and city, the doctors have not been able to prescribe this milk for their baby patients on the scale they would like to.

The Wildman Ranch maintains 8,000 plurigratic Toggenburg, Saanen, and Anglo-Nubian goats of the best breeding and lineage. At present, the goat dairy is producing in the neighborhood of 2,000,000 pounds of milk a year.

The entire output is sold exclusively to retail drug stores in all parts of the country. This famed goat milk is sold in different sized tins on the basis scale of 37 cents a quart. The demand for the product is already ahead of the supply.

California goats are winning service stripes and honorary decorations as the most dependable saviors of delicate infants at this time known to medical science.

The Wildman Ranch is increasing its flocks as rapidly as it can purchase and goats while it is interesting other farmers and ranchers in the business.

Potentially, the canned goat milk business promises to develop to the extent that our domestic demand for this material will be satisfied.

give them a drink. I didn't think when I promised them dry weather on their vacation that they would need so many drinks. But I might have known. Wally is the greatest drinker in all Meadow-Grove Land or Whispering Forest."

But just as he was about to start away, Wally looked at the sky again and said, "My, I hope it doesn't rain until our vacation is over. It's bad enough to be thirsty without having to traipse through mud!"

So Sprinkle-Blow didn't go.

Well, Wally and Mrs. Woodchuck climbed and climbed up the brown mountain. They had discovered, of course, by this time that it was not chocolate cake, or any other kind of cake that the mountain was made of, but they had Sprinkle-Blow's word for it that the white stuff was frosting. They weren't so hungry for the frosting by this time, however, having their minds on being so thirsty. But you know how it is, when one sets his mind on having a vacation and getting somewhere in particular, he's going to have it and get it. That's the way it is. People plan and plan and think they have to have

A cold bath before breakfast is good for some and bad for others. If the individual's reaction to a bath is exhilarating and has the tendency to produce good spirits, then the bath, whether it be hot or cold, is beneficial to the person.

A young, vigorous heart and a flexible set of arteries will, in response to the stimulus of a nipping cold bath, carry the rich, warm blood to the remotest extremities. A less vigorous heart, or stiff blood vessels, or a sluggish muscular "tone" will leave the chattering victim of a cold plunging nursing "goose pimples."

Cold baths for such a person may develop an irritability that often results in a full-grown case of nervousness. Therefore the temperature of the bath should be gauged by the way the individual reacts to it.

One can get practically the same reaction from the tepid, warm, or even hot bath as from the cold bath. The "kick," of course, is not extensive, but the afterglow is just as satisfying. The blood is driven from the surfaces by the changed temperature, and comes back more quickly as the capillaries or hairlike veins have not been so violently contracted. To arouse the latent vital energy by inducing a definite reaction to the nerves and blood vessels and through them to the entire body, is one of the chief functions of the bath.

EVERETT TRUE BY CONDO

The warm bath is the only safe bath for those with heart irregularities, kidney diseases, rheumatism and blood pressure conditions. It also relieves the ache of fatigue better than any other kind of bath.

A tub is better for those who can stand it than any amount of splash, sponge or shower bath. This is due to the fact that in standing on the bottom of a tub, the pressure on the internal organs hangs vertically from the backbone. When the person lies horizontally upon the bottom of a tub, the pressure on the internal organs is equalized. The lungs, spleen, liver, and other internal organs float in a water bath in entirely altered relations to one another. This relieves pressure on the heart and arteries and gives a highly restful gravity massage to all the internal organs.

HOT DRINKS FOR THE WINTER DAYS

Make Them With Grape Juice You've Canned

By Sister Mary

Grapes for grape juice should be perfectly ripe.

Grape juice may be used for other purposes besides refreshing drinks. Thin slices of ham are delicious baked in grape juice and it can be used in many desserts.

Sugar may be added when the juice is bottled or not. If the sugar is added to the boiling juice sift it in. The juice should be measured and 1 cup of sugar used to 4 cups of juice.

Grape Juice

Wash and stem grapes. Put a very little water in the bottom of the preserving kettle. It should be about 1-8 of an inch deep. Add grapes and heat, stirring to prevent burning and to break the skins and pulp. When the juice is flowing freely pour into jelly bag and let drip. If you let it drip all night you will be sure to waste no juice. If sugar is to be added, measure juice. Put in preserving kettle and skim off any scum as it rises. When just ready to boil sift in sugar. By adding the sugar this way the heat is not reduced and no scum should rise the second time. Do not let the juice boil. Pour hot into bottles and seal. When the juice is used it should be diluted with water.

Grape juice and lemonade is a tempting combination. Hot winter drinks are delicious made with grape juice and lemons and a few spices.

A delicious jelly that will take the place of cranberry jelly with turkey or game is made of wild grapes and crab apples. The country housekeeper sometimes finds it difficult to get cranberries, but wild grapes and crab apples are usually plentiful.

Wild Grape and Crab Apple Jelly

Wash and stem wild grapes. Measure and add half as many cups of diced crab apples. Put in preserving kettle with just enough water to prevent burning and cook until the apples are soft. Stir frequently to extract the juices. Pour into jelly bag and let drip. Measure juice. Put in preserving kettle, boil twenty minutes. Add as many cups of sugar as there were cups of juice and boil eight minutes. Pour into jelly glasses and cover with paraffin when cold.

COW MAY BEAT RECORD.

Bozeman, Mont., Aug. 23.—Grace Koninzen, famous cow of the State College Herd dairy herd here, has averaged more than 100 pounds of milk a day for the last three months and an average of three pounds of butterfat a day. The cow, according to college officials, this year will beat her 1920 record of 25,120.5 pounds of milk and 791.5 pounds of butterfat.

MARKETS

WHEAT FLUCTUATES.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Wheat opened 1-4 cent up on the Chicago board of trade today, advanced to a full cent over yesterday's finish and then eased off. Country offerings were reported light. A rally at the end of the first hour carried prices back to around the opening figure.

The market became erratic later and prices fluctuated mainly on local trading on a range of around two cents. Close well above yesterday's finish with September, $1.17 1/4 to $1.18, and December to $1.19 to $1.19 1/4.

"True Blue" and the "Blue Ribbon."

The expression true blue is handed down from the Scotch Covenanters of the Seventeenth century, who chose blue as their emblem in opposition to the royal red. The Covenanters were a group bound by a series of covenants to uphold the Presbyterian forms and doctrines of faith. Thus true blue was applied originally to a loyal Presbyterian. The blue ribbon, always the reward of the winner in a race or contest, originated in the use of a blue ribbon as the distinguishing badge of the Knights of the Garter, an order founded by Edward III.

Where Plague Starts.

There are four epidemic centers of bubonic plague—that is, localities where the disease is always present and from which seed may be derived for an extensive outbreak in other parts of the world. One of these epidemic centers is in Mesopotamia, two are in the regions of the Himalayas and the fourth is located in Uganda, Africa. The fight against plague is necessarily a fight against rats and their tenants, the fleas.

The Single Track.

The profiteer was being shown over an English museum one day by one of the directors. They came to the room where the stuffed birds were exhibited. "Now, these stuffed birds," said the director, "are among the finest specimens in the country. They're worth thousands and thousands of pounds." "You don't say so?" said the profiteer, studying the cases; are they stuffed with, then?"

A Uarrow Range.

The motion picture people are at their wits' ends for scenarios with new plots. Don't they know that there are but 37 plots which comprehend every possible human experience and set the limits for dramatist and story and novel writer? Judging by what we have seen on the screen, but a dozen have been used.—Los Angeles Times.

A Conundrum.

"Father," said a little boy thoughtfully, as he watched his parent collect his notes and arrange the slides for a parish entertainment, "why is it that when you spend your holiday in the Holy land you always give a lantern lecture on it? You never do when you have been to Paris!"—London Morning Post.

Photos of Fairies.

An Englishman claims to have made photographs of fairies which are not visible to the eye, but which the photographer says may be recorded on the photographic plate. There are many persons who have examined the photos and plates, but are not yet convinced.

Tyranny of Custom.

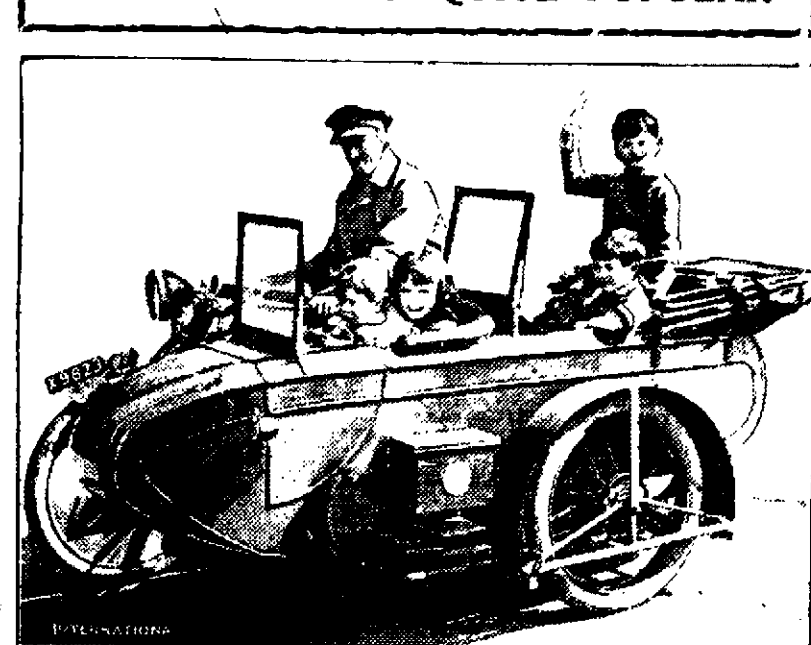

Stanley, the African explorer, said: "No luxury of civilization can be equal to the relief from the tyranny of custom. The heart of Africa is infinitely preferable to the heart of the world's largest city. If the way were easier, millions would fly to it."

Mending.

Electrician's sticky black tape is excellent for mending breaks in pipes or bowls. If the weak spot is in a pipe, wrap the tape around it tightly, leaving a generous amount on each side. If there is a crack in the bowl, run the tape along the crack.

TAKE GOOD CARE OF CAR BATTERY

Most Troubles Are Due to Failure of Owners to Carefully Observe Instructions.

MAKE FREQUENT INSPECTIONS

See That Liquid Solution Is Up to Proper Level and Save Expensive Dismantling and Rebuilding—Some Simple Points.

Nearly all battery troubles are due to the owners' failure to observe a few simple instructions. The motorist who gets the greatest power, the most service and the longest life from his storage battery is the one who is cautious in the care of it and makes it a practice to examine it at least once every two weeks in winter to see that the liquid solution is up to the proper level.

These periodical tests are highly important. They enable you to tell in advance when your battery is in danger of being ruined through undercharging or overheating, when minor troubles in the electrical system are draining the strength and endurance of your battery, when an inexpensive freshening charge would save expensive dismantling and rebuilding later.

Few Simple Suggestions.

Here are a few simple instructions, which, if followed, will lengthen the life of your battery, and give more satisfactory service.

Under no circumstances use anything but pure distilled water. "Boiled" water will not do, it must be distilled water from which all impurities which would injure the battery have been removed. If you do not care to add distilled water yourself make arrangements with the nearest service station to do it for you.

Add or electrolyte should never be added except by an expert battery man.

All metal parts of connectors, which are not lead-coated, should be kept covered with a thin coating of vaseline.

Look at your battery occasionally, and if the solution has sprayed or spilled, wipe clean with a moist sponge.

Don't lay tools, or anything else, across the top of your battery.

Remember that your battery isn't expected to keep spinning your engine several minutes at a time. It can do it but it is bound to shorten the battery's life.

If your engine does not start promptly when you operate your starter, make sure your ignition switch is turned on and that your carburetor mixture is rich enough before using your starter again.

In cold weather if your engine doesn't start promptly see whether it is being sufficiently "primed."

If your battery is to stand idle with your car out of commission for a month or more at a time, take it out of the car and leave it with a service station to be cared for.

Cause of Dim Lights.

If your lights are dim or there are any other indications that your battery is "run down," it may be due to the fact that you are running the car too little to keep the battery charged or the generator may not be charging properly, or a wire "short circuited." If you cannot easily locate the trouble, go to a service station and have an inspection made.

MAKE UNNECESSARY TROUBLE

Many Owners by Indiscriminate Changing of Adjustments Do Much Harm to Engine.

A great many car owners in southern California are making the mistake of changing adjustments too often. The best piece of advice that can be offered the owner is first to be sure what the trouble is and then start to rectify it.

The friction clutch was put on the market in 1913. It was a great improvement on the old-fashioned English drag.

FOCUSING LIGHTS IS CAUSE OF ANNOYANCE

Some Makes of Cars Have Provided Means of Adjustment to Correct Tilting of Headlights in One Direction or Other.

The matter of focusing lights is one which causes motorists a great deal of annoyance. All modern electric lights are equipped with some method of adjustment so that the light can be made to throw a clear strong ray where desired.

This adjustment consists of some method of lengthening or shortening the distance between the light bulb and the reflector, as desired. Usually the means for doing this is easily understood and consists of a threaded holder for the bulb with a lock nut for securing the holder in the position arranged.

A method of finding out just how each lamp is operating, and of having a definite basis upon which to do the adjusting, is shown in the diagram, which explains itself, writes W. V. Robin in Farm and Fireside.

It will generally be found that one of the headlights has a tendency to tilt in a direction other than straight ahead. Some makes of cars have provided a means of adjustment that will let this be corrected. Where such a method is not provided it will be necessary to use a heavy monkey wrench for bending the lamp supports to the desired angle.

CHANGING TIRES IS FAVORED

Owner May Secure Maximum Mileage by Using Spare on Each Wheel for Week at a Time.

For the man who wants to get maximum mileage from his tires the habit of using a spare tire to afford regular changes, beginning at the right front and progressing around the car, is a valuable one to form. In this way each tire gets a week's rest in four, during which time it should be gone over carefully and have any cuts and abrasions vulcanized.

AUTOMOBILE GOSSIP

Automobile dealers in the United States number more than 25,000.

A humming noise in the transaxle case is very likely due to an excess of heavy grease.

Postal chauffeurs in Boston who drive at a greater rate than 12 miles an hour in their efforts to speed delivery or make up for lost time will be dismissed from the service.

There are at present 25,000 passenger cars, trucks and tractors in use in Belgium. This number is less than the registration of motor vehicles for the state of Wyoming.

American-made passenger automobiles in Germany have become popular because of economy of gasoline and oil, speed, flexibility, lighting, self-starting and appearance of body.

Automobile transportation has been added to the regular course of industrial engineering at New York university. This course is the first of its kind to be given by any university in connection with industrial study.

MEALS WITHOUT BATH ARE BEST SAYS LOCAL MAN

Narrowly Escapes Drowning At Swimming Pool Just After Eating Heavy Meal

There is a lesson to be learned from the fact that on Sunday last a man who had eaten a very heavy meal before going to the swimming pool, narrowly escaped drowning. The man, who is a local resident, was swimming in the pool when he suddenly became unconscious. He was rescued by a lifeguard and taken to the hospital. The doctor who attended him said that the man had eaten a very heavy meal, including a large quantity of food, and that this was the cause of his trouble. The man is now recovering and is expected to be discharged in a few days.

The two actresses are expected to do well in the movie.

MRS. MALLORY TAKES TENNIS TITLE AGAIN

Forest Hills, Aug. 22.—For the fifth time in a period of seven years, Mrs. Molla Blythe Mallory, a native of Norway, won the title of New York city champion in the women's singles championship Saturday when she defeated Miss Mary K. Browne of Santa Monica, Cal., 6-4, 6-4, 6-2. Mrs. Mallory played one of the best matches of her career. In the former title holder, who is now 38 years old, Mrs. Mallory faced an opponent too dangerous to be trifled with at any stage of the game. Miss Browne, as a court strategist, tactician and master of a large repertoire of strokes, is almost unequalled. Yet, the Norse woman, after losing the first set of four games, responded to the cheering and by an unequalled display of almost manly driving and steadiness, carried on to victory in the next two sets.

Wrong Number!

Wrong telephone numbers are sometimes given the operators because people trust to memory instead of using the telephone directory.

Also some people mumble the numbers they call, or speak so rapidly that the operator misunderstands.

Occasionally people thoughtlessly transpose the figures in a number. For example: When 13-48 is wanted, 13-84 is called.

Then, too, while telephone operators strive for accuracy, they sometimes make mistakes, just as any other person would in working with an intricate machine such as a telephone switchboard.

BASEBALL STAR OF NINETIES SEES CHANGES

New York, Aug. 23.—Amos Rusie an idol of baseball fans more than 20 years ago sat on the sidelines at the Polo Grounds during a recent game between the Yankees and White Sox, marveling in Babe Ruth whom he declared to be the greatest figure in baseball.

It's been 19 years since I saw a major league game, Rusie remarked. The game surely has taken long strides. Back in my day we had some heavy hitters, but none of them could hold a candle to Ruth. I refer to Wagner, Lajoie and Ed Deleahanty.

Back in the nineties, when Rusie appeared at the Polo Grounds the cheers and the shouting were all for him. The Hoosier Cyclone, they called him for he was considered the greatest right-handed hurler in the game. He dropped from the game in 1902 after trying vainly for two years to overcome the handicap of an injured arm.

When Rusie left the game he returned to his home in Muncie, Ind., and later went to Seattle, Wash., where he worked as a laborer. He is past the 50 mark in years, and his hair is gray. He sat unmolested by players and fans alike for he was unknown to them.

Then Kid Gleason, the old manager of the White Sox, recognized him. They were rivals for pitching honors in the old days. I'm sure glad to see you Amos, smiled Gleason, seem like old times to see you around. The famous old twirler returned to greet him and they walked to the White Sox dugout arm-in-arm.

Although Rusie has not witnessed a major league game for so many years he said he had kept up with the game through the newspapers.

Rusie said he didn't approve of putting a curb on the styles of pitching. "Give them a chance to develop. It my time we were not permitted to soil the ball and there were no freak deliveries. We had to depend on speed and fast breaking curves and we had a great advantage over the batters. The batter of today has the edge, however. The livelier ball and curbing of pitchers are the reasons. This can be carried too far.

The crowds are greater today than at any time. Baseball is now a great national institution. The White Sox scandal has not hurt the game much. Judge Landis has offset that black eye.

PASS SHIPPING BOARD MEASURE

Washington, Aug. 22.—The shipping board deficiency appropriation bill carrying $48,500,000 for use by the board this year and with the elimination of all restrictions as to what salary might be paid officers and counsel was passed today by the senate.

LEMKE DENIES HE'LL RESIGN

RECALL IN COURTS

Marmarth, N. D., Aug. 22.—Actual issuance of a writ by District Judge Thomas H. Pugh ordering City Auditor Eckholm of Marmarth to certify as sufficient petitions filed with him providing for a recall election on certain city officials of Marmarth including Eckholm will be stayed for 15 days to enable Eckholm defendant in the action to perfect his appeal. He requested for the stay was made by the defendant.

Eckholm who holds both the office of city auditor and police magistrate of Marmarth asserted the petitions filed with him were insufficient in not properly stating addresses of signers and in not sufficiently setting forth grounds of complaint against officials at whom the proposed recall election is directed.

HAY FEVER

I have been a victim of Hay Fever for the past five years and could find no relief, until this year, when I got Mr. Robertson's cure. My eyes were so bad and I was sneezing continually and could not do my work. After the first application I felt one hundred per cent better and after using it a few days more was completely relieved.
